Notes

a – Thursday League clubs for 1896-97 have not been included due to high uncertainty regarding the composition of the league

Does not include Schools' Football

Football clubs from the early 1890 onwards can be divided into five main categories –Professional, Senior, Junior, Minor, and Recreational. There is some overlap between the categories, particularly as the standard of football increases. Leicester Fosse and Loughborough, the premier clubs of Leicestershire competed in national leagues competitions; they were joined the English (FA) Cup by Barwell Swifts, Coalville Albion, Coalville Town and Hinckley Town. The Leicester Senior Cup and Leagues were for Senior clubs, the Junior Cup /District Leagues for Junior clubs and Minor clubs competed for the Challenge Shield, Leicester Town League and the lower division of District Leagues. If club in the list above entered two or more of these competitions, they would have fielded their first team in the highest ranked competition, and their reserve team(s) in lower standard competitions.

Club names were derived mainly from location. As the popularity of the game increased and matches between clubs from different towns/villages were arranged prefixes (eg Barrow, Hinckley, Ibstock) Leicester, and suffixes (e.g. Albion, Wanderers, Swifts) were added to differentiate clubs from one another.

Reserve teams in particular were sometimes by several names – eg Leicester Fosse Reserves were also known as Leicester Fosse Rovers and Loughborough's as Loughborough Athletic. The suffixes – 'Rovers' and 'Swifts' were sometimes used to differentiate second or third; teams from the first team of a given club.
